SHARP CURTAILMENT IN BUILDING OPERATION

In 20 cities in the Eastern States, there was a falling off of 39%; expressed in dollars, this was from $27,000,000 last year to $16,000,000 this year. A $4,500,000 loss in Albany, N. Y., was accounted for by the change in the building laws; otherwise, losses were more or less proportionate. In New York City, building was surprising; Manhattan Borough nearly equalled last year; in Bronx, fully 100% larger than in September last year, and in Brooklyn, fully 50%. In the Bronx, building for the first nine months of the year was ahead of the corresponding period last year, and Brooklyn $10,000,000 ahead. This is partially accounted for by developments in the opening of new subways, but it is remarkable, nevertheless. In Philadelphia, there is a loss of more than 50%, which is the first important loss recorded in that city this year. For the first nine months of the year, the loss was approximately $27,000,000, most of which is accounted for in the month of September. This makes a loss of approximately 11.5% compared with the corresponding month last year.

In 16 cities in the Middle West, the loss was not as pronounced, amounting to about $5,000,000, or 23%. The most startling loss was in the City of Chicago, $2,500,000; Detroit, $500,000; Grand Rapids, $1,000,000, but September, 1913, was above the average, and Minneapolis, $600,000. It is interesting to note that in these cities for the first nine months of the year, there was a gain of approximately 4%.

In seven Southern cities, the tightness of money is most evident, decreases being general in each case and amounting to 41% for September and 15% for the first nine months of the year.

Returns from Pacific Coast States have been meager, and the five cities heard from were perhaps not enough to form any adequate basis for comparison, but the loss in September amounted to 64%, comparing with 19% for the first nine months.
